Rain or Shine, Every Day Counts!

Last week, our school attendance reached 88.75%, the lowest overall attendance this term. While we love seeing those smiling faces in the classrooms, we're aiming to push that number even higher! We've noticed that when the clouds gather and the rain starts to fall, our attendance tends to dip. We completely understand that staying in a warm house on a gloomy morning is tempting, but consistent attendance is the secret ingredient to your child's success. Even on the wettest days, the learning doesn't stop; missing just one day can mean missing out on key concepts and social connections that build confidence. Let's work together to beat the "rainy day blues"—grab the gumboots, pack the raincoat, and let's keep the momentum going!
